in Clarksburg was so great a surprise to the citizens of that unassuming town that they could not believe that they had been vouchsafed so great a favor, and have been ever since gravely discussing in their newspapers if or not she was really and truly the eminent tragedienne who condescended to accept their dollars. One of the articles has the caption, "A Clever Fraud Practiced on the Clarksburgers. They may rest happy. They certainly saw the veritable lady.

Just as we thought General Hancock's boom has been flattened out by his antistates rights utterance. The Richmond Commonwealth says: "If General Hancock entertains these sentiments he is no Democrat, and he belongs to the Republican party. His proposition, if he has been correctly reported, constitutes the dividing line between the Republican and Demo cratic parties, and the man who is upon the side which he is represented to have declared for is a Republican, and the man who is upon the other side is a Demo

THE Democratic party, says the Charleston Leader, after enslaving the negro for one hundred years, and plunging the nation in a civil war to sustain and perpetuate the institution; and after he was emancipated from bondage, opposed every measure looking to his civil advancement as a citizen, is now deeply concerned be cause the General Conference of the M. E. Church, which has been in session in the city of Cincinnati for the last month did not elect a colored man to the Episcopacy. When all the religious societies in America combined, do one tithe as much for this once down-trodden race as the M. for this great party of civil and religious to criticise the acts of this great church.

WEST POINT seems destined to enjoy an unusual amount of public attention this year. Scarcely has the Whittaker excitement subsided when a difficulty grows out of a case of hazing among the cadet candidates in Colonel Haus' preparatory school, and ends in the wanton shooting of a son of Sergeant-at-Arms Thompson by a young Texan named Beaumont Buck. The academy cannot be held directly responsible for this shameful affair, nor can it order another court of inquiry to investigate it; but it was the direct result of the hazing that has so long been one of the

CHOICE COFFEES.

The crowning affliction was heaped on him by Mr. Garfield, who led the conven-tion out of the trouble and buried the New York Senator so deep in ridicule that he will scarcely be able to recover during the convention. When Conkling rose to ask a question of the Chair he was hissed and laughed at from all parts of the hall and by the delegates, newspaper men and distinguished guests. A motion to lay Mr. Conkling's motion on the table was about to be put when Mr. Conkling withdrew to be put when Mr. Conking to be put when Mr. Co

No public man ever made so wretched exhibition of himself or more thorough-disgraced his State in a public body. The Pittsburgh Chronicle says:

West Virginia is a small State. But she grows plucky men. Individual speech and action is not restricted in West Virginia as much as in the great States of New York, Pennsylvania and Illinois, judging from the way the Senators hold their lorgest together. orces together.

The Washington Post, Democratic in politics, alludes to the episode in the fol-

These delegates said they had no notion of opposing the ticket, however constituted, but they didn't mean Conkling should swear them to do anything. Mr. McCormick, one of the gentlemen whom Mr. Conkling proposed to kick out, came back at the distinguished Senator with the persuasive ponderosity of a hundred-ton trip-hammer, when, in contrasting his record with Conkling's, he said he had made one hundred speeches in the campaign of 1876, while Conkling had made but one, and that reluctantly. This was the signal for a storm of applause for Mr. McCormick, followed by groans and hissee for the New York boss. Taking one consideration with another, the affair was not a happy one for the head of the third term trium-virate.

THE Pittsburgh Dispatch referring to highly imaginative telegram, sent by its Wheeling correspondent, comments as

According to our Wheeling special certain Republicans of that city appear to be indignant at the action of Mr. Campbel of the INTELLIGENCES, in the Chicago Con of the INTELLIGENCE, in the Chicago Convention y esterday. Let our Wheeling friends go slow. If Mr. Campbell's position be carefully compared with that of Mr. Conkling, Mr. Campbell will appear immeasurably superior to the lordly Roscoe. Wheeling and West Virginia should be proud of a citizen like Mr. Campbell. Campbell. The same paper adds the following.

Boss Rule must indeed be at a low ebb when Mr. Conkling was even forced to withdraw his resolution to oust the West Virginia delegates from the convention. Of course it was only a little cheap buncombe on the part of Mr. Conkling—a suggestion that he believed the nominee would be General Grant, but it raised a storm, and delegates insisted on retaining their freedom of action after the convention. Mr. Campbell, of West Virginia, but it well when he said that he owed allegiance to no sovereignty except that covered by his own hat. Boss Rule must indeed be at a low ebi the hazing that has so long been one of the features of life at West Point. The matter should be brought before the civil authorities at once, a judicial inquiry made and judgment passed in accordiance with facts. The way to suppress rufflanism is to mete out to it the ordinary undignified punishment of rufflanism.

The West Virginia Delegates.

There has been a variety of opinions expressed in regard to the action of the three delegates from West Virginia who refused to vote for Senator Conkling's resolution; there has been a multiplicity of mistatements of the real position taken by these gentlemen. It will be time enough, however, when the delegates return to Miss and popular in society, and Miss Alice the added thankers a head.

In the meantime we present the endorsement of strangers—editorials written by persons wholly unacquainted with the gentlemen and uninfluenced by fear or favor. The Philadelphia Times, Col. Alec. BURLEY AND MCCORMICS.

What they said to "Gath" the Enquire Geo. Alfred Townsend telegraphed the ollowing to the Cincinnati Enquirer, Saturday

At dinner this evening I had a talk with W. J. Burley of Moundsville, and S. P. McCormick, of Grafton—two of the three Vest Virginia delegates who so success ally defied Lord Roscoe Conkling to-day and compalled him to-day fully defied Lord Roscoe Conkling to-day, and compelled him to abandon a position that he thought was impregnable. Said Mc Cormick: "I may not be as able, but I claim to be as good a Republican as Mr. Conkling; and I think it a piece of impertinence on his part to demand that I should pledge myself to support the candidate in advance. My constituents sent me here for that purpose, and I do not recognize the right of any such arrogant as Conkling to question my intentions or exact pledges from me. It is just the same as though a number of ladies should meet together, and one of their number meet together, and one of their numbe should demand that all should bind them should demand that an should was less to live vertuous thereafter. I am no slave of Conkling, and I would die before I would wear his collar. I sincerely wish that he was kicked out of the party, for

I would wear his collar. I sincerely wish that he was kicked out of the party, for though he is a Republican by name, he is an aristocrat at heart."

Mr. Burley took the same ground, saying that he thought it the height of impudence for Conkling, who sulked in his tent when Hayes was nominated, to come forward now and intimate by resolution that men who have always been true to the party intended to prove recent now.

"We live in a State," said he, "where it costs something to be a Republican. We are not office-holders or office-seckers, and we have no fear of Conkling, and no respect for his insolent airs." Further conversation led me to infer that it was not the resolution that was objected to so much as the man who made it.
